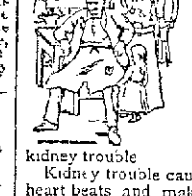
Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.



The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

CONTEMPT FOR THE PEOPLE.

HOW AND WHY THE TRUSTS ARE PERPETUATED BY THE HANNAITE ADMINISTRATION

The Hannaite administration holds the mass of the American people in contempt. It has contempt for their intelligence, contempt for their conscience, and expects to perpetuate itself in power by the payment to different henchmen of sums of money or appointments to office. If it were not so the Porto Rican bill would not have been passed, neither would the administration stand as the defenders of trusts and Congress have upon its calendar only measures to take from the people their substance, to be given in the form of subsidence to corporations, or for the still worse purpose of fighting wars of conquest and spoliation.

They prate loudly about the extension of trade and of trade following the flag, while we have just planted the flag in Porto Rico, extended our navigation and coasting laws to that island and put up a tariff against trade to enable the trust barons to add to their profits. The government maintains a tariff upon iron and steel products and allows the armor plate combine to hold up the government for hundreds of millions of dollars. It maintains a tariff against barbed wire and allows a trust to fleece the men who would fence the prairies and add to the wealth of the nation and multiply American homes. It maintains a tariff against paper, and wooden pulp, and permits the paper trust to raise the price of paper 50 per cent as they have during the past four months, which must result soon in increasing the price of every newspaper in the land and shut out the light upon public questions from the homes of the poor. It maintains a tariff against lumber in order that the lumber barons may decimate and destroy the American forests while they plunder the American people and prevent the poor homesteader from building a roof over his head or providing a shelter for his cattle.

This government is a people's government, and the people still possess the power to correct every abuse and remove every obstacle to their progress, development and prosperity. Heretofore in the name of building up infant industries, under the plea that it was necessary that we should become a self supporting nation the people have granted these extortionate tariffs, and freely and willingly bore the burdens to develop these industries. Now that these industries have become so great that they are looking into the Orient among the cheapest people in the world for a market, and are undertaking to defy the competition of Europe in that quarter of the globe, they still ask the American people to maintain this high tariff to enable them to continue their extortion in America while they undersell the world in Asia. Is not the contempt in which these men hold the great rank and file of the people supreme? Does it not surpass understanding?

Our people are partisans. This is not to be disparaged, if they are intelligent and their partisanship does not blind them to their own interests. It is impossible that the interests of a majority of our people can be served without the interests of the whole people being served, because a majority embraces every interest that is represented in a minority.

The difficulty with our people is, that we are not only partisans, but that we have deep prejudices that grow out of party antagonisms that stultify our reasoning powers. The men who expect to receive the votes of the people to empower them to plunder society at large, and overturn the government of the fathers, have contempt for the intelligence of the people and believe that when their intelligence is weighed in the scale against their prejudice that their intelligence will kick the beam and that they can depend upon the people voting for the party that is labeled with the label that they have been accustomed to using.—Washington National Watchman.

THE WORKINGMAN

He lays his hand upon the stubborn soil
And Lo! a mighty miracle is done.
It glows responsive to his touch of toil,
Fruitful and fair beneath the golden sun.

At his behest the prairie is transformed,
He digs the desert and it disappears,
Before his plow the wilderness is stormed,
And leagues of corn lift up their splendid spears.

Amid his sheaves he stands a happy man,
Nor seeks to solve the things beyond his ken,
Content with the All-wise Eternal plan
Of Him who shapes the destinies of men.

The sky that bends above him shows no stars
At noon, and yet he knows the Power Divine
That shaped the Pleiades and fashioned Mars
In their appointed time will bid them shine.

His hearthstone is the altar, he the priest
Of home's sweet sanctuary, day by day,
In joy or sorrow, indigence or feast,
Where love unsullied keeps its gentle sway.

No [illegible] envy occupies his breast,
No schemes of avarice distress his mind,
By heaven's [illegible] peace his simple life is blest,
And in his tasks he blesses all mankind.

His labor brings the harvest to the plain,
And through his brave exertions millions live.
He toils—the miracle that grows the grain
And all the crops that pregnant acres give.

To him the crowded city looks for food,
From him gaunt famine flees and squalor hides;
His energies sustain the multitude,
And where his blessings fail pale want abides.

For him the sun and stars give forth their light,
For him the restless ocean ebbs and flows,
For him the earth in [illegible] the peaceful night,
And all things beautiful their charms disclose.

He builds the mighty ship whose progress spurns
The [illegible] tempest on the trackless sea;
His strength is life; the wheels of commerce turns,
And cleaves a wider space for liberty.

Oh, wonder-working toil! God's gift to man;
What blessings follow when thou art applied
In strict accordance with the Master's plan,
And with his sisters, where thou art denied.

God bless the honest toiler, everywhere,
In mill and mine, in factory and field!
His [illegible] the antidote for dumb despair,
His sturdy arm the Nation's surest shield.

And may God keep the toiler free and brave
From [illegible] tyranny of hypocrite or clan
That seeks to dwarf his soul and to enslave
The free born spirit of the Working Man.

JOHN L. [illegible], in Scranton Truth.

THE QUELLING OF MISS IDLEWILD.

BY CARRIE P. GARRETT

MATTHEW HALLIDAY sighed. She was so wayward, so provoking, so lovable, so pretty.

But he was much too old.

Matthew came of Quaker stock in the City of Brotherly Love. He was temperamentally sedate, and at 35 felt himself to be quite a Methuselah. Besides, she had, so to speak, grown up at Matthew's knee, he having stood to her and her brother in loco parentis for something like twelve years—ever since Matthew's best beloved friend, Howard Joy, took his invalid wife away for a sea voyage, leaving his two children in the good care of a maiden aunt, and his business affairs in the safe hands of Matthew Halliday, banker—ever since the good ship Aurora went down in a fearful gale in the West Indies.

Aunt Patty tried to do her duty by the children thus suddenly bereft, but she was one of those dear, dumpy, yielding spinsters born to be the prey of youthful vandals. The young people loved her dearly, ruled her ruthlessly, and laughed at her little code of laws for the order of their being.

It was at her hysterical behest that Matthew stepped in at this juncture and took the reins of government. It was he who planned the education of the children, and who, deaf to their wailings, kept them steadily to their tasks. It was he, too, who made their holidays glorious and gave them splendid rewards of merit.

But now the term of Matthew's self-imposed guardianship was over. Howard Joy, Jr., had made a successful start in the world and was quite ready to give dear old Mat any pointers he needed about life in general.

As for Miss Evelyn Russell Joy (as she invariably and unabbreviatingly subscribed herself)—whom Matthew called "Eve," or oftener "Miss Idlewild"—well, she, too, had made a successful start in life after the manner of girls. She was just nineteen (just half my age! Matthew often dismally reflected), she had charm with all its power of winning love, she was coquette to the finger tips, and she was most fair to see. Besides all this, she was a little bit of an heiress—and many swains came riding by.

Matthew watched all this with a patient sort of despair. Fool! he called himself, with very hearty self-contempt.

It was to quash a darling plan of his pretty sister's that Howard stalked into Matthew's office one morning, his brow wrinkled in a portentous frown.

"Mat," he said abruptly, "it seems to me Evelyn has been spending money like the deuce lately. Haven't you been letting her draw her interest ahead of time?"

"Sometimes she has anticipated—a little," he said slowly, "but it is no great matter."

"But it is very bad for her," said Howard, with a parental air. "You know yourself, Mat, she has no more idea of business than a butterfly. She ought to learn to live within her income. And she is becoming quite reckless about money matters and—other things."

Matthew pricked up his ears. "What other things?"

"Why, it is chiefly that play writing fellow, Duval. He has a comedy to be brought out in New York next week, and about twenty young people here propose to make up a party for the 'first night.' Evelyn is among them. They have a rather good chaperone, as it happens, but—"

"She must not go," said Matthew.

"I thought you'd see it that way," Howard replied with a satisfied air. "So all you have to do when she demands money for this expedition is to say 'No.' You can do this because she has overdrawn her account."

Two or three days after this visit of Howard's Miss Idlewild went down town to see Matthew in his office at the bank—"on business," as she said, demurely.

"Give the poor cripple a dime?" she began, in her absurd way.

"Certainly," said Matthew, with grave politeness, and he took a bright, new dime out of a little roll of coins fresh from the mint and handed it to her. So she looked a little disconcerted and abandoned this method of attack.

"Matthew, I am bankrupt, insolvent, forced to make an assignment," she said in a plaintive, spoiled child tone. "I want some money—a lot of money, in fact—for a very special purpose. May I have it?"

"A lot?" repeated Matthew.

"Yes, that is, at least a hundred."

Matthew looked grave. "What is the special purpose?" he inquired, fervently hoping she would tell him all about the proposed theatre party.

"That's a secret," said Miss Idlewild, with an air of mystery.

"I can not let you have any money just now, Eve," he said gently, after a pause, and as he spoke he carefully avoided her eye and stared with rapt absorption at the carpet.

"But, Matthew, I haven't any money," she said piteously, half laughing, half embarrassed, "and Howard is so mean he will not lend me any. I shall have to sit on the curbstone and sell needles if nobody will take pity on me."

"You have overdrawn your account several months deep," said Matthew, still studying the carpet. "It is wrong for me to allow you to do this."

"But now, when I want it so badly. It is cruel to refuse me now. I will economize after this, Matthew. I will, indeed."

Poor Matthew found it terribly hard not to yield to her, but Howard's words "fast set" recurred to him, and he steeled himself against her pretty beseeching.

"Matthew, please," she said, after a pause, with just a little tremble in her voice and an expression on her face which should have melted an iceberg.

But Matthew was looking at the carpet.

Perhaps that was why he had strength to say "No" again and in such a way that Miss Idlewild knew that all her pretty pleading was wasted.

Then, of course, she blazed up into anger, her eyes flashing and cheeks hot with indignant feeling.

"Of course you can do as you choose about it," she said, which was a rather superfluous remark under the circumstances.

"I mean it only for the best, Eve," he said sadly. "This unwise project"—but here he stopped, rather horrified at himself for having nearly betrayed Howard.

"That is my affair," she interrupted with terrible dignity. "Besides, you know nothing of the project, whether it is unwise or not. It is the money you refuse me."

Matthew shivered and looked at the carpet very hard indeed.

"Hereafter," continued Miss Idlewild with a grand air, "I will manage my own money matters. Then I will know just how much I have and spend it as I please without begging for it. I am of age and I will not endure such treatment any longer."

All this she said in anger, never dreaming that long suffering Matthew would take her at her word.

"Very well," he said, and he was a little paler as he spoke. "I will take steps to this end at once. You will find I have not abused my trust."

Incensed as she was, Miss Idlewild's head drooped with something like shame at these words. Never in her life had Matthew spoken to her like this, never before had she felt abashed and frightened in his presence. A swift sense of his fidelity and her own ingratitude rushed over her.

"Matthew!" she faltered, and she took a step forward, but he turned away.

"You will pardon me if I leave you," he said formally. "I am very busy this morning."

He held the door open for her, and with burning cheeks she hurried out, and no word was spoken by either as they parted.

Poor Matthew was cut to the heart.

Certainly she tried to make amends to him in a thousand ways. Indeed, her manner to him was so much gentler that he began to think she had guessed his secret—that she pitied him.

Matthew lived only about half a block from the Joys, and Evelyn was in the habit of running in and out of his house as if it were her own. She was a very special pet of Miss Abby, Matthew's maiden sister, who kept house for him.

Matthew went into his study one evening about 8 o'clock and closed the door, giving strict orders that he was not to be disturbed. It was about fifteen minutes later, just as he had settled down for his evening's reading, when he heard the door bell ring, then quick footsteps running down the hall, followed by a gentle tap at his door.

He did not say "Come in," but got up, with some irritation, and opened the door.

It was Miss Idlewild, in evening dress, with a frothy looking pink thing over her head and shoulders—laughing and out of breath.

"May I come in?" she said demurely.

Matthew looked at her unsmilingly, still holding on to the door.

"Abby is out," he said. "She has gone with some ladies to a lecture."

"How lively for her!" said Miss Idlewild rather quickly. Apparently she was her old self this evening.

"Perhaps you had better go into the sitting room," said Matthew in a tone which he meant to be at once polite and crushing.

The girl laughed, not the least abashed, and made a little bow.

"Your hospitality overwhelms me," she said mockingly. "Why not invite me to sit in the hall?"

"Come in," said Matthew shortly, dropping his hand from the door. "Was she laughing at his misery?" "Might he not have even peace?" was his angry reflection.

"It was that dreadful Beecher," she said confidentially. "I had bribed Perkins not to admit him, but, of course, Howard happened to be at the door when he rang, and so I was in for it. Howard is so—so literal. So I fled in desperation. That dreadful boy! He is waiting for me now. I guess he thinks I'm primping."

"Did you come over here with no wrap but that flimsy thing?" asked Matthew, looking his very crossest.

"Yes, grandmother." This was what she called Matthew when he lectured her.

He had hitherto borne such jibes in patient silence, but to-night it angered him.

"I object to your addressing me in that manner," he said with an effort.

"I beg your pardon, Matthew," she said, looking a little frightened. "It was only in fun."

Then he said: "You will take cold going back. I will send for a shawl." And he rang the bell as he spoke.

"I won't have any shawl," said Miss Idlewild pettishly. "First you receive me as if I were a chimney sweep, then you scold me for a mere harmless jest, and now you want me to wear a shawl! I won't do it."

"You will."

"Well, you will see. Besides, I am not going home yet—not until that stupid Beecher has gone. Last time he came he wept—actually wept—all over the carpet. I had to put on my rubbers."

But Matthew was proof against nonsense. Not a smile escaped him. A huge grey shawl arrived per maid and he began to unfold it with a determined eye.

"I tell you I won't wear it," she said petulantly, but she was growing rather pink with apprehension as Matthew steadily advanced, the shawl outspread in his hands.

"I can't think what makes you so unkind to me," said Miss Idlewild, weakening and growing pathetic. "It was dreadful of me to speak to you as I did that day, but I've tried to show you that I was sorry for it. It isn't fair to go on visiting that upon me. You treat me as if—as if—" Here Miss Idlewild paused, unable to proceed, and turned her face away.

Matthew construed this as a base capitulation to escape the shawl, so he was not moved by it.

"I'm going to take you home now," he said, "and I want you to wear this. Let me put it around you."

"I won't have it!" she exclaimed excitedly, tears gathering in her eyes.

"Now, Evelyn," said Matthew gravely, "this is childish. It is a winter night. You have on an indoor dress. You must put on a wrap. And probably Miss Patty and Howard are uneasy about you. Come, be reasonable."

"I will go home," said Miss Idlewild in a trembling voice, "since you are so anxious to be rid of me. But I do not need either you or the shawl."

"You will, nevertheless, have both on this occasion," said Matthew sternly. "And I will not discuss the matter with you any longer."

So saying, he went up to her and put the shawl around her, whether she would or not. In trying to evade him she stumbled, and he caught her, shawl and all, in his arms.

Matthew always said he completely lost his head at this moment. He forgot himself—forgot everything but that the girl he loved was in his arms—at last!

"Eve!" he said, desperately, holding her close and all his pent up man's soul breaking its bonds, "you know that I love you!"

Then he released her quickly with an expression on his face as of one expecting the heavens to fall. But instead of falling the heavens seemed to open their golden gates to Matthew, for Miss Idlewild, all swathed as she was like an Egyptian mummy, looked up at him with wet, laughing eyes.

"It took you a long time to make up your mind, Matthew," she said plaintively.—Phila. Inquirer.

A Symposium.

There was a scrap at the boarding house dinner table.

"You think you're hot stuff, don't you?" said the Coffee to the Pepper.

"You have sufficient grounds to be so," replied the Pepper, "but from all I can hear, you never are."

"Don't get saucy," said the Horse radish, sharply.

"Oh, you ain't so warm," retorted the Pepper.

"That's the chalk," chimed in the Milk, approvingly.

"You're too fresh," snapped the Salt.

"If anybody said that to me," exclaimed the Butter, coming out strong, "I'd make it pleasant for him."

"Don't you worry," remarked the Bread, "nobody will ever say it about you, unless he's a liar."

"You're a crusty old thing and show your raising by mixing in what does not concern you," growled the Butter, and collapsed.

"I do not like to be seen in such company," said the Roast Beef with much dignity.

"You're tougher than any of us," ventured the Bread.

"My, my, what a rumpus," twittered the Salted Almonds.

"Get out," shrieked the Pickles—"you're nutty."

"Cheese it," piped the Bread, "here comes the landlady," and in a minute the tumult was stilled.—Detroit Free Press.

POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY

The coming total eclipse of the sun, due in the United States on the morning of the 28 of May next, will probably materially advance our scientific knowledge of this strange phenomenon. Owing chiefly to the ready accessibility of the sections where its totality occurs, much interest is being shown by the general public regarding the best means for amateur observations and facts connected with eclipse history. An article directly in this line—giving a general account of the history of eclipses, what has been discovered by their aid, and what yet remains to be elucidated, how they may best be observed by one not equipped with a telescope, the features of special interest to be watched for, and the various times and places where the totality may be seen—is published in Appleton's Popular Science Monthly for May. A number of maps and diagrams add very much to the clearness and interest of the article, which is written by PROF. F. H. BIGELOW of the United State Weather Bureau.

"THE Boer general," said the aide-de-camp, "is fighting very stubbornly. He's a regular mule."

"That being the case," replied the British commander, who was not without experience in some things, "we'd better not attempt to take him on the flank."

"YOU'RE looking kind of green, Bill," said the Half Eagle to the Dollar Note; "you need change."

"No, thank you," replied the other, "change would break me up completely, and probably make me look like thirty cents."—Phila. Record.

Wireless Telegraphy.

It is said that successful experiments have at last been accomplished in wireless telegraphy, and this would undoubtedly be a good thing, and revolutionize many ways of doing business. One writer has gone so far as to say that wireless telegraphy is the greatest discovery of the age. We beg to differ. Don't overlook Hostetter's Stomach Bitters when you talk about the great things of the world. This peerless medicine has done more to promote health and settle stomach troubles than any other medicine in existence. It cures dyspepsia, indigestion, malaria and constipation. It never fails. HEBER'S ALPENSTOCK.

Heber Wood was born in England and grew to early boyhood amidst the murk of the rolling mills. He came to America and to Chicago, and grew to young manhood in the same atmosphere. His father was a puddler in the North Chicago mills. His old friends and relatives all worked in the mills. In time he came also to work there.

The smoke arising from many chimneys, the wind blast, the frantic antics of half stripped men, the passion and fume of the work got into his soul somehow. It seemed tragic to him. He could not take it as a matter of course as the others did, and, since he had a trick of drawing things he saw, he many a time drew these half naked men in the fierce glow of the mills, he drew the chimneys stretching in a gloomy vista, and he drew the faces of some of the men who had grown old in the work.

He had a knack of doing it—doing it the right way—a knack which no one could have taught him, just something of his own instinct and interest. And some people who knew saw the pictures and said:

"But this is well done! What in the name of pig iron are you doing in the mill? Why don't you study art?"

"Study art," he cried. "I could never make a study out of anything that seemed so natural and so delightful."

But he took the advice of his friends. He studied mornings. He worked at the mills afternoons and evenings. And after a time he went abroad, taking passage in the steerage of a certain liner which is now no more.

What he did abroad is a long story with sorry incidents and a triumphant whole. He lived in an attic so infested with rats that to protect himself he purloined some netting from the Zoo gardens and slept beneath this screen. He picked up old pans and scoured them and cooked from them. The attic he got for nothing because it was haunted. Some women almost as poor as himself, gave him a table and chair.

"Pretty tough climbing, isn't it?" he would say to these dear and faithful friends—the women who were almost as poor as himself—but they say it is mighty pleasant after one gets up. This is my alpenstock, you know!" and he held up his drawing pencil.

At the worst of his luck he was out walking in the fields one day, thinking thoughts that would have been bitter if he had not been so young and so happily conscious of the alpenstock, when he saw, approaching him down the road, two cyclists, a man and a woman. They were coming down a declivity and the woman's wheel swerved on a stone and threw her. Her companion had shot beyond her, but he dismounted as soon as possible and he and Heber hastened to her assistance. She had a badly sprained ankle, and it was necessary for Heber to put the wheels in safe keeping and then return to assist her brother—for such was the relationship of the young man to her—in carrying her home.

The house in which she lived was on a green road, well back amid a beautiful garden and the structure was of gray stone, beautiful in construction, and half covered with vines. Heber could not restrain an exclamation of admiration at such a charming place.

"Our father built it himself," said the young man. "He was of the same profession as myself—an architect."

"I have never seen a place that looked more inviting," responded Heber.

"I hope it is so inviting that you will return," the young man said. "I feel under obligations to you—"

"No, no!"

"Well, at any rate I hope to see you again. You are an artist, as I judge from your paraphernalia. Come see me, and we will talk about all we do not know."

"We ought to have long conversations. You are kind—and I confess I am lonesome and grateful for the invitation. I shall come."

He came, shabby as he was, and talked many evenings with Geraldine Huston and her brother, and the friendship grew apace. For the low-voiced, graceful girl Heber began to feel something much stronger than common regard. And he resented it. He did not wish the torment of hopeless love added to his other trials, so quite suddenly he said good-bye to his friends and returned to Chicago.

He prospered here after a fashion—did endless portraits for people, did work for the newspapers and for magazines, and exhibited dull green English scenes in the shop windows, and people bought them for their quaintness. So he was able to buy a home for his father and mother, and he kept himself steadily at his money getting. But he was not happy. He longed to do more individual work—work which should not have to be constructed for a particular market—and he could not rid himself of the haunting thought of Geraldine Huston.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

HALF HEARTED McKINLEY INDORSEMENT FORCED FROM THEM

The Republican State Convention at Harrisburg last Wednesday carried out the programme that had been arranged. It was a convention thoroughly under the Quay influence, but not a few of the battle scarred followers of the ex-Senator sadly admitted their fears that the "Old Man" would never dominate another gathering. They did not hesitate to express their belief that Tuesday's vote in the United States Senate practically put an end to the Beaver statesman's political career.

The slate went through without a scratch, and so well were the delegates held in subjection that no sign of their bitterness against the National Administration because of Quay's defeat was allowed to crop out. The only words that showed this feeling are in that plank of the carefully prepared platform which insists that Governor Stone acted within his constitutional rights when he named Quay to succeed himself.

There was a somewhat lively, though dignified, exchange of words during the proceedings over the platform's indorsement of Quay, in which Penrose and Senator Flinn participated, but Flinn was content to get in his protest and to show that he had the support of 70 delegates, while Penrose only went far enough to give warning that he meant to hold up the men who helped bring about the downfall of his deposed chieftain. Both men were courteous but forcible, while the Quay heelers on the floor and in the galleries hissed and jeered at Flinn.

The ticket nominated is made up as follows:

For Auditor General—EDMUND B. HARDENBERGH, of Wayne County.

For Congressmen at large — GALUSHA A. GROW, of Susquehanna County, and ROBERT H. FOERDERER, of Philadelphia.

For Presidential Electors-at-Large—W. C. ARNOLD, of Clearfield, CLARENCE WOLF, of Philadelphia, FRANK H. BUHL, of Delaware, and A. B. ROBERTS, of Montgomery.

The eight delegates-at-large to the National Convention finally agreed upon Tuesday are M. S. Quay, of Beaver, John B. Steel, of Westmoreland, Frank Reeder, of Northampton, William Connel, of Lackawanna, L. W. Green, of Cameron, John Leisenring, of Luzerne, and Charles A. Porter and James Elverson, of Philadelphia.

The alternate delegates at large are J. Preston Thomas, of Chester, W. J. [illegible]lace, of Warren, C. Barclay, of Cameron, Edward A. Price, of Delaware, M. E. Lilley, of Bradford, W. C. Kreps, of Franklin, Jesse L. Hartman, of Blair, Dr. George Edward Reed, of Cumberland.

QUAY ASKED TO RUN AGAIN

The plank of the platform as to Quay reads:

We again record our firm conviction that in the appointment of the Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay as a member of the United States Senate from Pennsylvania Governor Stone was acting within his constitutional authority, and the thanks of the Republicans of Pennsylvania are due to Hon. John P. Elkin, Attorney General, for his masterly and logical argument before the Elections Committee of the United States Senate clearly demonstrating the existence of this power in the Chief Executive of the State. We deplore the action of the United States Senate in denying us the right of full representation to which we are entitled under the Federal constitution.

We still contend that the Governor had Constitutional authority to make the appointment and in selecting the Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay he was acting in accordance with the clearly expressed will of a large majority of the Republicans of the State. We express our confidence in Senator Quay's leadership and we believe in his political and personal integrity. A great wrong has been done him, which the people will right at the proper time, and therefore we urge and insist that Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay shall be a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate, in which he has so long served the people with such distinguished ability and fidelity, and to this end we pledge him our hearty and cordial support.

We commend the Hon. Boise Penrose for his earnest insistance upon the right of Pennsylvania to have full representation in the United States Senate. We still adhere to the doctrine that each State is entitled to two Representatives in the upper branch of our National Congress either by election or appointment and we therefore commend the efforts of Senator Penrose in insisting upon the Senate seating the Hon. M. S. Quay on his credentials of appointment received from the Governor. We also commend the Senator for the tireless diligence and ability with which he looks after the many and varied interests of his constituents.

ADVERTISING GETTYSBURG.

The movement suggested some weeks ago, looking to the formation of an organization of Gettysburg's business men for the purpose of advertising Gettysburg, culminated last Wednesday, at a meeting in the Court-room, in the formation of a business men's league.

The work of pushing our town forward as an interesting point for visiting organizations, conventions and general tourists has been performed in large part heretofore by members of Corporal Skelly Post, G. A. R., who were in close touch with military organizations especially, but the members of that body now desire to retire and to leave that duty to the younger men, and hence their suggestion that the business men organize themselves to that end.

The purpose of this league is a good one, particularly since there is great rivalry among cities and towns in obtaining the many conventions and other visiting bodies which meet at various times, and Gettysburg, one of the most attractive places in the State, ought not be behind.

The league can perform useful service in many lines, but one of the greatest needs are more convenient railroad schedules and better rates.

Gettysburg's facilities for entertaining large bodies of visitors are quite the equal of places many times our size, and the league can do a good work in correcting a misapprehension existing in some places, as to that fact.

Improvement in the town's business concerns every man in it.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The Republican State Convention which met in Harrisburg last Wednesday, being a gathering of those Republicans of the State who are interested solely in the success of the Quay Machine, was of necessity boss-ridden and lacking of any sincere regard for the welfare of the people or the State at large. It is spoken of by the Phila. Record as follows:

> The resolutions favoring Ballot Reform and the enlargement of the power of the Courts to detect and punish election frauds are equally insincere. Like the thief who cries "Stop thief!" in order to put his pursuers on the wrong scent, the party seeks in this way to avoid the responsibility for its willful crimes against the ballot. The resolution adopted in favor of the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people will be better understood if considered with reference to the failure to force the election of M. S. Quay in the Legislature, and in the contrasting perfection attained by the Republican managers in Pennsylvania in casting and counting fraudulent votes.
>
> The real expression of the mind of the convention is to be found in the indorsement of Quay and Stone. Quay is pushed forward as a continuing candidate for the vacant Senatorship; his abject tool, Stone, is fulsomely approved, even to the matter of his "vigorous enforcement of the pure food laws," and Penrose, Elkin, Beacom and McCauley are all coated with the customary slaver. The convention was a Quay convention. The Republican party in Pennsylvania is a Quay party [illegible] Pennsylvania. Until it shall have divested [illegible] itself of the leadership which is now in control its success will insure the defeat of all efforts for good government, and will be a continued reproach to the conscience and character of the Commonwealth.

From the Phila. North American.

Although Mr. Quay's Harrisburg convention endorsed him, praised Senator Penrose and commended Governor Stone, it was deemed necessary to conclude the platform with an implied rebuke to all three. Governor Stone last summer, it may be remembered, wrote to the Democratic New York World avowing his belief that trusts were good and not bad and that they should not be dragged into politics. Senator Penrose publicly seconded this view. Mr. Quay when in the Senate was ever the active friend of the trusts, and still enjoys their backing in politics. Nevertheless Mr. Quay's convention adopted this plank:

> We declare against all unlawful and illegal combinations of capital to the detriment of business and trade and against the best interest of the laboring people.

That, to be sure, is not a blast of sufficient force to frighten the trusts, whether "unlawful" or "illegal" or lawful and legal. Were it a hundred times stronger and in twice as good English no "combination of capital" would be alarmed, for the trusts know who are their friends and are liberal in their judgment of those that for political reasons find it expedient to assume a hostility, though they have it not, when an election is approaching. Still it is something to have Mr. Quay's convention differing from Governor Stone and Senator Penrose and Mr. Quay on the subject of trusts, albeit the condemnation is restricted to those which are unlawful and illegal. Had the statesmen and scholars who framed the platform been able to find a trust that while unlawful was not illegal their deliverance on the dangers incident to the concentration of capital would doubtless have been even more sternly menacing.

TO EVACUATE CUBA.

Senator Mason last Thursday introduced a joint resolution in the Senate requiring the President to withdraw the forces of the United States from Cuba, so as to turn the government of that island over to the Cubans by the 4th of next July.

The resolution is preceded by a preamble setting forth that in entering upon the war with Spain the United States disclaimed any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty over the island; that the United States is under treaty obligation to give independence to the Cuban people; that "the continuance of the United States in possession of the island has excited the attention of the world and is exciting the apprehension of the people of Cuba;" that, under the Monroe doctrine the island is safe from foreign invasion; that "the Cubans have shown a disposition to make their best efforts to govern themselves and can undoubtedly do so without endangering life or property, and that the United States has done all that could be expected of it."

THE POTATO BUG TRUST.

As the time for planting has again come around the potato bugs have formed a new Trust under the kindly cover of the Dingley tariff. The article around which this Trust is organized is known to trade as the "Paris green," and although it is scheduled in the tariff as a color it is most extensively used by farmers to prevent the ravages of the potato bug and other destructive insect enemies. In January, 1894, some eight or nine manufacturers of Paris green, representing the potato bug army of Kansas and Colorado, formed a combination to fix the price of their product. In the spring of the same year, when the early vegetables had begun to appear, the potato bug rejoiced to learn from their allies of the combination that the ordinary price of Paris green (about 12 or 14 cents) had been advanced to 20 cents a pound. A little later, when the Colorado bug was getting in its most effective work, the price was advanced to 23 cents a pound. The farmers grumbled, paid the money, and kept on voting, as usual, for the party of the Trusts.

In September of the same year the Wilson tariff reduced the duty on Paris green from the McKinley tariff rate of 25 per cent. to 12½ per cent., in spite of the Trust and of the protests of large conventions of potato bugs in Nebraska, Kansas and other Western States. As a consequence of this reduction of duty the Trust dissolved, and the farmers could buy Paris green for 11 or 12 cents a pound. But when the Dingley tariff raised the duty to 15 per cent. the advance in the rate, small as it was, revived the Trust and sent up the price of Paris green to 21 cents a pound, or to nearly double its ordinary price. In the winter of 1899, when there was no demand on the part of the farmers, the price of the article was 9 or 10 cents a pound; but no sooner had the army of potato bugs begun to stir from its Western encampments than the price was again advanced.

This spring the price is once more advancing, and the Trust and the potato bugs anticipate a rich spoil from the farmers.—Phila. Record.

BY a vote of 52 to 3 the Senate on Saturday declared Nathan B. Scott, of West Virginia, a member of that body. Mr. Chandler gave notice he would call up the Clark case Wednesday.

MAJOR GENERAL GEORGE GREENE.

At a stated meeting of the Commandery of the State of New York of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, held January 31, 1900, at Delmonico's, New York, the Committee appointed to adopt resolutions relative to Companion Brevet Major General George Sears Greene, U. S. Volunteers, who died at Morristown, N. J. January 28, 1899, aged 97 years, reported in part:

In the great battle of Gettysburg he rendered services of extraordinary value. The 12th Corps arrived on the field during the evening of July 1st, and the 2nd Division were assigned to a position on the slopes of Culp's Hill, connecting on their left with the 11th Corps at Cemetery Hill, and forming the right of the Union line, which, as all remember, was in the shape of a fish-hook. At the close of the afternoon of July 2d two Brigades of the 2d Divison of the 12th Corps were ordered to the assistance of the 3d Corps, then hard pressed at Round-top. This left only Greene's Brigade, numbering barely 1,500 men, to occupy the trenches of the entire Division. This was promptly done by taking open order by the right flank, but before the movement was executed, shortly after dark a furious attack was made upon this weak Brigade by an entire Division of Stonewall Jackson's Army Corps. For two hours a fierce fight continued, in which the Confederates failed to drive Greene out of his trenches and then they retreated for the night. The attack was renewed the next morning with vigor, and the Confederates came within twenty feet of the trenches, where large numbers of their dead were left, but they again failed to carry the position. Major Lee, the Adjutant-General of the Confederate Division, was shot and left dead only a short distance from Greene's line. Owing to the peculiar shape of the Union line, had the Confederates succeeded in breaking through Greene's trenches, they would in a few moments have reached Meade's Headquarters, only about half a mile in the rear of these trenches, would have completely outflanked the 1st and 11th Corps on Cemetery Hill, and would have come squarely in rear of the 2d Corps at the place which gained its reputation the next day as "high water mark." That the result would have been a complete disaster for the Union arms has never been doubted. That this result did not occur, in spite of the fact that the Confederate Division enormously outnumbered the few hundred men in Greene's Brigade, was due to the sturdy courage of these men, and to the skill and gallantry with which they were commanded by General Greene. His great services on this occasion were fully set forth by General Slocum in his speech at Gettysburg in 1893, and by General Howard, General Sickles and other corps commanders on many occasions.

DUTY OF CONSTABLES.

The average constable in Pennsylvania has an idea that his responsibility ends when he serves warrants or subpœnas and draws the regulation fees as compensation. Many of the Common Pleas Judges have striven to impress upon the minds of the constabulary that reporting the alleged sale of liquor was also a part of their duty, but rarely is a constable found who has been able to discern any such violations of law. Judge Stewart of Franklin county, has been urging those minor officials to fulfill other obligations that the Legislature imposed upon them in their functions as fire, game and fish wardens. The Judge laid particular stress upon that clause of the legislative act that imposed penalties upon the constables for failure to guard the fish, game and forest interests. The Court referred to the fish law especially as a wise one. The finny tribes have come to be a very important part of our food product, and it was therefore wise for the Legislature to throw all safeguards about a proper treatment for them. There is not a cheaper article of food anywhere than fish. They feed themselves. The Commonwealth has gone to great expense in stocking the streams of the State, and the act protecting them was one not in accord with a common notion, that the legislation was solely for the interest of fisherman and sportsmen, but for the good of the whole people of the State. Constables are fairly compensated for arresting persons caught violating the provisions of the act, and the officers have power to make such arrests without warrants. — Philadelphia Press.

SUPPORT THE GROUT BILL.

The Pennsylvania dairymen, at the evening session of their Wednesday mass-meeting, in Philadelphia put themselves squarely on record in support of the Grout bill, now pending in Congress, by the adoption of the following preamble and resolutions:

Wheras, A bill is now pending before the House Committee on Agriculture in Congress known as the "Grout Bill," which provides for State supervision of dairy products and the increase of the tax on oleomargarine when colored in semblance of butter, from 2 to 10 cents per pound; and

Whereas, Efforts are being made to substitute other provisions for the second section of said bill, providing for said increase in tax; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, representative dairymen of the State of Pennsylvania, in mass-meeting assembled, do earnestly protest against such substitution of any other provision which will allow colored oleomargarine to go into the hands of the retail dealer at a cost which will be an incentive for him to defy or evade State laws and thereby bring about the disgraceful condition which has been revealed in the State of Pennsylvania during the past ten days; and be it further

Resolved, That we call upon the Congressmen of our State to stand by the "Grout Bill" and use every effort to secure its passage with the ten-cent tax clause therein preserved.

Telephone Extension.

The Cumberland Valley Telephone Company will shortly be in communication with Gettysburg, York and Lancaster by way of Adams County. As soon as five miles of line between Cashtown and Grafenburg are built the company will connect with the Adams County system. The company will also build a line from Mercersburg to Welsh Run.—Harrisburg Patriot.

SAYS NO TO MR. QUAY

By A Vote Of 33 To 32 Quay Is Rejected By The Senate.

Mr. Quay was shut out of the Senate last Tuesday by a vote of 33 to 32, Senator Vest turning the scale against him. Owing to the closeness of the vote it was not until the clerk reached the name of Senator Vest that the result could be predicted.

Senator Vest had been counted as certain to vote for Quay; by voting against him he insured his defeat.

It was the most dramatic roll call in the Senate since the days of the Electoral Commission. Mr. Quay was at his house on K street, and so did not witness it, but it lacked no other dramatic element, not even the tears of real regret that came to the eyes of Senator Wolcott the most valuable friend that Quay had in the Senate and the most disappointed over the result.

Most interesting of all was the fact, which few knew, that Senator Vest, the shadow of his former self, voted his convictions on the Constitutional question in accordance with his past record and speeches, knowing that his vote would be fatal to his friend, while he held in his hand an autograph note just received from Mr. Quay, begging him, for the sake of their long and intimate friendship, to save him from defeat.

Few, even of the most sanguine of Mr. Quay's opponents, really anticipated a victory.

It was known that party lines and constitutional restrictions were set aside for the moment and men would largely vote according to their personal feelings.

After weeks of wire-pulling, pipe-laying, desperate personal appeals and other preparations, both sides were ready for a vote. On Monday it looked as if Quay had his opponents beaten, but Tuesday afternoon sentiment began to change rapidly and the feeling of confidence on the part of his friends gave way to one of apprehension. It became known that Mr. Hanna had paired with Mr. Depew, thus taking two votes from the Quay side. It was then noised about that Vest had shifted his from the Quay to the anti-Quay element, which changed the whole aspect of the situation.

QUAY WILL NOT GIVE UP

In connection with the Republican state convention on Wednesday Mr. Quay said:

"It will, or at least it ought to, set at rest the persistent rumors that I would retire from the field as a candidate for reelection to the Senate. I will do nothing of the sort. I will remain in the fight to the end, and I am confident I will be reelected to the Senate when the Legislature meets in January. There are principles involved in this fight which would make it impossible for me to withdraw even if I were personally most strongly disposed to do so."

The York grand jury for the quarter ending April 21 approved the erection of the new courthouse, which will cost about $400,000. The building is nearly finished. The grand jury says the structure will pay for itself in 40 years, as two courts are now held simultaneously, resulting in a big saving of witness fees and pay for jurors, as the court panel is used for both courts.

YOUR STOMACH IS A CHURN

Sweet butter can't be made in a sour churn. The stomach is a churn. A foul stomach fouls the food put into it. When the food is fouled the blood made from it is fouled also. Foul blood means disease. Cleanse the churn and you have sweet butter. Cleanse the stomach and you have pure blood. The far reaching action of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is due to its effect on the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases that begin in the stomach are cured through the stomach.

"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved a great blessing to me," writes Mrs. Ellen E. Bacon, of Shutesbury, Franklin Co., Mass. "Prior to September, 1897, I had doctored for my stomach trouble for several years, going through a course of treatment without any real benefit. In September, 1896, I had very sick spells and grew worse, could eat but little. I commenced to take Dr. Pierce's medicine and in a short time I could eat and work. I have gained twenty pounds in two months."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper-bound volume, or 31 cents for cloth binding, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

$100 REWARD, $100.—The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

One of the pleasant features of the evening were the specialties introduced between the acts, which were as follows: Music by a female sextette between acts 1 and 2; Mike and Jeff between acts 2 and 3; club swinging followed by the illustrated song "Grandma's Last Amen," between acts 3 and four.

The music was furnished by Lansinger's Orchestra of Emmitsburg.

I CONSIDER it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neighbors to tell about the wonderful cure effected in my case by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I was taken very badly with flux and procured a bottle of this remedy. A few doses of it effected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from that dreadful disease.—J. W. LYNCH, Dorr, W. Va. This remedy is sold by S. J. Codori's Drug Store, Gettysburg.

SEVERAL Hagerstown fire companies will not attend the State Firemen's Convention in Baltimore, July 13-15, because the prizes to be given in the various contests are not purse prizes, but silver horns and loving cups. They want cold cash as a reward of merit.

Otto Korb, Grand Chancellor, K. P., Boonville, Ind., says, "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve soothes the most delicate skin and heals the most stubborn ulcer with certain and good results." Cures piles and skin diseases. Don't buy an imitation. L. M. Buehler.

J. O. PARSONS has been appointed postmaster at Nashville, York county.

THE ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of sciatic on inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the infliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by S. J. Codori's Drug Store, Gettysburg.

THE Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor Convention will be held in Philadelphia November 20, 21 and 22 next.

W. W. Mayhew, Merton, Wis., says, "I consider One Minute Cough Cure a most wonderful medicine, quick and safe." It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. It cures coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, grippe, whooping cough, pneumonia and all throat and lung diseases. Its early use prevents consumption. Children always like it and mothers endorse it. L. M. Buehler.

S. MILFORD SCHINDEL, Hagerstown, has invented a machine to mercerize fabrics and make linen goods look like silk.

W. H. Shipman, Beardsley, Minn., under oath, says he suffered from dyspepsia for twenty-five years. Doctors and dieting gave but little relief. Finally he used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and now eats what he likes and as much as he wants, and he feels like a new man. It digests what you eat. L. M. Buehler.

THE committee appointed to prepare a program for the entertainment of the State Editorial staff Association, which will hold sessions in Wilkesbarre June 26 to 30, met there Tuesday afternoon. W. H. Capewell, of Dallas, presided, and Colonel R. H. Thomas, of Mechanicsburg, performed the duties of secretary. The others present were D. Lamade, of the Williamsport Grit; Herman Young, of the York Dispatch, and J. Irving, of the Ashland News. A program was prepared for the entertainment of the editors when they meet in that valley.

SCHOOL APPROPRIATIONS.

The Legislature of 1899-1900 appropriated $11,000,000 for the maintenance of the nearly 24,000 schools in the State for two years beginning with the first Monday in June, and of this amount Colonel James E. Barnett, who will become State Treasurer on the first Monday in May, will distribute only $9,000,000, as he will treat the action of the Chief Executive as constitutional.

One-third of the money will be divided among the various school districts according to the number of taxables, one third according to the number of school children, and one-third according to the number of taxables in each district.

Adams county's appropriation will amount to $32,752.79; its children number 7,394, its teachers 194, and taxables 10,674.

NO USE TRYING

I can't take plain cod-liver oil. Doctor says, try it. He might as well tell me to melt lard or butter and try to take them. It is too rich and will upset the stomach. But you can take milk or cream, so you can take

Scott's Emulsion

It is like cream; but will feed and nourish when cream will not. Babies and children will thrive and grow fat on it when their ordinary food does not nourish them.

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day when taking an ounce of Scott's Emulsion. It gets the digestive machinery in working order so that the ordinary food is properly digested and assimilated.

AN EPIDEMIC OF WHOOPING COUGH.—Last winter during an epidemic of whooping cough my children contracted the disease, having severe coughing spells. CLIFFORD, proprietor Norwood House, Norwood, N. Y. This remedy is for sale at S. J. Codori's Drug Store.

THE Wire Nail Trust has made York's business men lose $15,000 by reducing the price of nails $1 per keg. All the firms had stocked up in anticipation of still higher prices, which the Trust's agents declared were bound to come. There are 15,000 kegs of nails in stock in York.

FINANCE COMMITTEE MEETING.

The committee appointed last year to solicit subscriptions to liquidate the debt of the Theological Seminary, amounting to about $50,000, held a meeting at the Seminary on Thursday afternoon and evening. The object of the meeting was to select a suitable person to send out to solicit subscriptions for the purpose. As yet no one has been decided upon. Those present were Dr. Wagner, of Hazelton, President of the Board of Trustees; C. S. Wiser, of York, Treasurer of the Board; Dr. Dunbar, of Baltimore, Chairman of the Committee; Dr. Singmaster, member-elect of the Faculty, and the Faculty of Seminary.

SOME OBJECT.

We find among the people of our county a division on the Rural Free Mail Delivery question. The majority, it seems, favor the system, but some object, the objections coming largely from those sections where there have been two or more mails a day by train service.

In these cases, where the number of mails would be reduced, if that is the intention of the postal authorities, the system would of course be very objectionable. We understand, however, that none of the post-offices are to be discontinued.

Objections also come very naturally from those who do not live along the mail routes, and who would be inconvenienced by the discontinuance of their post-offices.

AMONG THE IMPROVEMENTS.

The stone work of the new Episcopal church will likely be finished this week, and it is expected that the building will be completed during June.

The old Methodist church parsonage, Baltimore street, is being torn down, preparatory to the erection of a new and modern house.

The porch in front of the City Hotel is being repainted.

Miss Mary McAllister is having the store room in her house on Chambersburg street renovated.

H. B. Sefton is having his barber shop on Baltimore street thoroughly renovated.

After to-day, May 1st, 1900, the mails for the following offices in the county, owing to the discontinuance of the Star Routes, will close at 11 o'clock a. m.: Bonneauville, Red Land, Two Taverns, Barlow, Greenmount, Fairplay, Mummasburg, Plainview and Heidlersburg.

LAND CONDEMNATION CASES.

Circuit Court Decisions in Gettysburg Battlefield Cases.

Judge Gray on Wednesday filed an opinion in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in favor of the government in the matter of the appeal of land owners in the Gettysburg land condemnation cases.

The history of the case is commonly known to our readers. The land is taken by the United States for the national military park to preserve the Gettysburg battlefield. Some years ago a jury of view, consisting of seven men, made awards to the owners of five tracts of land, with which awards the owners were dissatisfied A jury trial followed in the Circuit Court and resulted in verdicts to the owners of the five tracts in question aggregating $10,922.50. The former awards by the jury of view amounted to $9,269.50, the increase being $1,653. The land owners were, however, dissatisfied and after being refused a new trial took an appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals, which has now found in favor of the United States.

After reviewing the testimony in the cases, Judge Gray says: "We think that the learned Judge in the court below has clearly and correctly stated the rules of law which govern a jury in the ascertainment of the value of land proposed to be taken by the United States, and the damages resulting therefrom. We, therefore, feel that it is only necessary to refer to these rulings and the reasons given therefore as in accord with our own judgment, and as a sufficient statement of the reason controlling this court in affirming the judgment of the Court below."

MARRIAGES.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the M. E. church at Mount Holly Springs at eleven o'clock on Thursday, when Prof. H. M. Roth, superintendent of the schools of this county, and Miss Mary E. Shearer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Shearer, of Mount Holly, were made man and wife.

To the strains of "Lohengrin," beautifully rendered by Edgar Newton Fought, organist, the ushers, Prof. G. H. Eckels, Shippensburg Normal; Charles Trostle, Gettysburg; Prof. D. K. Landensberger, of Perkiomen Seminary, Pennsburg, Pa., and Edgar Swartz, of Holly, entered the church, followed by the maid of honor, Miss Carrie Eppley, of Plainfield. The best man, Prof. C. E. Barton, of Shippensburg Normal, and the groom also entered, taking another aisle to reach the altar place. The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her away. Rev. E. T. Swartz, pastor of the church, tied the knot, while the organist played sweetly "O Promise Me." Mr. Fought played Mendelssohn's wedding march as a recessional.

The bride was becomingly attired in a steel gray travelling suit with hat to match, and carried bridal roses.

The decorations were beautiful, the ceremony being performed under a large bell of spruce, having a lining of carnations, and suspended from an arch of spruce. Other parts of the church were decorated with spruce, potted plants, arbutus and cut flowers.

Prof. and Mrs. Roth left Carlisle on their wedding tour, after which they will take up their residence in Gettysburg.

They were the recipients of many beautiful presents from a host of friends, who wish them much happiness.

A very pretty marriage was solemnized on the afternoon of April 24th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Horner, of Mountjoy township. The contracting parties were their daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, and Mr. Mark Ray Snider, a young merchant of Harney, Md. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. G. Minnick, pastor of Mt. Joy church. The bride was attired in white organdie and carried a bouquet of carnations. The attendants were Misses Gertrude and Ruth Horner, sisters of the bride, and Mr. Cleason R. McIlhenny and Master John Hartman. The wedding march was rendered by Miss Martha Hartman. After the happy couple had received the congratulations of all present, a bountiful wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Snider were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents. Later the couple left for a trip to Baltimore. On their return they will reside at Harney.

A BUSINESS MEN'S LEAGUE.

Formed for the Purpose of Advertising Gettysburg.

At a meeting of quite a number of Gettysburg's citizens in the Court-room last Wednesday night it was decided to form a Business Men's League, having for its purpose largely the advertising of Gettysburg and the procuring of as many visitors as possible; also to obtain better railroad and other facilities than we now have.

Hon. W. H. Tipton opened the meeting and stated the object of it, in effect as above. He also moved that H. T. Weaver be chosen Chairman and J. L. Williams, Esq., Secretary. Hon. W. T. Ziegler was selected Treasurer.

Mr. Ziegler, a member of Corporal Skelly Post, from which organization this movement emanated, stated that at a recent meeting of the Post it was determined to ask the citizens of Gettysburg to hereafter take in hand the arrangements for the various visitors to Gettysburg; that the Post felt that although it had done all in its power heretofore in this line its members were becoming too old to do the work as it should be done, and that the active business men of the town should now become interested. Quite a number of others addressed the meeting and a great deal of interest was manifested, to the end that an organization was effected.

The speakers were J. Harry Holtzworth, Calvin Hamilton, Hon. Theodore McAllister, J. L. Williams, Esq., W. F. Dill, Esq., J. M. Minnigh, John Pitzer, Hon. W. H. Tipton, Frank Eberhart and W. A. Scott.

H. T. Weaver was chosen permanent Chairman and J. L. Williams Secretary, who, together with the Committee recently selected at the Post meeting, Hon. W. H. Tipton, J. Harry Holtzworth, Penrose Myers, Esq., and W. H. Wierman, shall form the Executive Committee, the Executive Committee to appoint various sub-committees.

DEATHS.

In the death of Mr. George Gingell, Sr., which occurred at his home on West Main street, at 6 o'clock Monday evening, Emmitsburg loses another aged citizen. Mr. Gingell, who was in the seventy-fourth year of his age, had been in declining health for the past several years. He was born at Rockville, Montgomery county, Md., and in his younger days followed the milling business. After he quit milling he moved to this place and engaged in the saloon business. He resided in this vicinity for about twenty years. He is survived by his wife and five children, namely, Mrs. L. M. Smith, of McSherrystown, Pa.; Mrs. H. B. Grothey, of York, Pa.; George Gingell, Jr., proprietor of Liberty Mills, near Emmitsburg; Mrs. H. W. Eyster and Mrs. J. E. Payne, of this place.

The funeral services were held in St. Joseph's Catholic church on Wednesday morning, with a Requiem High Mass. The interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church. The services were conducted by Rev. Father Judge.—Emmitsburg Chronicle.

Frank J. Devine, of Edge Grove, died on Wednesday, the 18th, of pleural pneumonia, aged 29 years, 9 months and 18 days. Deceased was a son of ex-County Commissioner, James Devine, Esq. About 5 years ago he was married to Miss Rosa Groft, who with three children, Ralph, Emory and Grace, survive him. He is also survived by six brothers and two sisters, Harry Devine, of York, J. W. Devine, W. P. Devine, J. I. Devine, S. L. Devine and Eugene Vincent Devine, and Miss Annie Devine, of Edge Grove, and Mrs. Joseph Koehler, of Catonsville, Md.

Mrs. Sarah, wife of Jessie Kohler, of Hanover, died Saturday morning from a complication of diseases, aged 73 years, 6 months and 27 days, after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Kohler was united in marriage to Jesse Kohler, who, with 5 sons and 2 daughters, survive her. The sons are: Franklin, of York; Milton, of Hagerstown; Hymen, of Pittsburg; David and George, of Philadelphia. The daughters are Mrs. J. Emory Bair, of Gettysburg, and Mrs. C. H. Kaiser, of Hanover.

Jesse Hoffman, a well known and respected citizen of Hamiltonban township, died at his home near Orrtanna of dropsy and heart trouble on Friday afternoon, April 20th, aged 62 years and 29 days.

Deceased was a native of Maryland and served in the Union army during the Civil War with credit, receiving an honorable discharge at the close of his term of enlistment. He then settled in this county, having married Miss Sarah Toot, a daughter of Jacob Toot. Six children were born to them, all of whom survive: Mrs. Currens, of Harney, Md.; Mrs. Drais, of York, and Abram, Jacob, Ellen and Jesse.

Funeral services were held at the house on Sunday morning by Rev. Scherer, pastor of the Lutheran church at Fairfield, after which his remains were accompanied by his children and a large company of sympathizing relatives to the cemetery at Fairfield and laid to rest beside those of his wife, who passed away from earth four years ago.

As a father he was good tempered, affectionate and indulgent, and we, the sorrowing children, realize with aching hearts that, next to the loving mother so suddenly taken from us and so sorely missed, we have lost our best friend.

The census enumerators will begin work June 1, and the work must be completed by July 1. Much delay in this matter may be avoided by each head of a family giving this matter a little thought beforehand. The government wants to make this, the 12th census, the most correct one over taken. S.

Fierce Mountain Fire.

A fierce mountain fire, extending over an area of of five miles, burned over the South Mountain, near Laurel, last week. The high winds fanned the flames and hundreds of acres of valuable timber were destroyed. The two big ice houses of the John S. Low Ice Company, at Laurel, were burned. The two houses held 15,000 tons of ice. The fire spread to the summer cottages of John S. Low, Harry McCartney, Otis Connelly and Mrs. Biddle and the Pine Grove Iron Works, all of which were also burned. The loss sustained by the Low Ice Company is estimated at $40,000, with some insurance, and the total losses will foot up $75,000.

In Remembrance.

Loving friends, weep not for me,
 I long to be at rest.
How happy, happy shall I be
 When pillowed on my Saviour's breast.

'Twas sad to see thee breathe thy last,
 But Jesus lovingly said come;
Now thy sufferings all are past
 And thy sweet spirit rests at Home.

Close behind our footsteps fall,
 But while wearied with life's needs,
Oft affection will recall
 All thy kindly words and deeds.

Oh! the hope, the hope is sweet, dear mother,
 That we soon in Heaven may meet,
Where we all shall happy be,
 Rest from pain and sorrow free.

Excellence Emphasized.

There is no reason why the merit of Merchandise should not be duly emphasized. There can be no poorer bargain than a poor thing at any price.

The trashy imitation of a good article at one third of the price of the real thing is not economical, even at one third the price of the real.

Our customers demand the best that they can afford, and come to us because they know the price will be honest. We bank on the merit and honesty of our goods.

The Excellence of our Dress Goods.

The unusually large business done in our Dress Goods Department this season proves to us two things—that the styles are right, and the price is right. In consequence of this large business we have a great many ends, some of one or two dress lengths, others shorter—a skirt length possibly, that has been neglected in the showing, pushed back by the salesforce for larger or more convenient stock. We have, therefore, concluded to do an unusual thing for this season of the year, make quick work of closing them out, and we will place the entire line of shorts and ends of Wool Dress Goods, black and colors, aggregating many hundred yards, upon our counters at a sacrifice price.

SALE WILL BEGIN ON

Thursday, May 3rd, AND CONTINUE
Friday, May 4th--
Saturday, May 5th

if the stock holds out. We invite everybody to this sale that takes an interest in excellent Dress Goods at under value prices. It is an opportunity seldom to be had in the middle of the season of buying from almost a full assortment of Dress Goods at less than end of season.

No samples of these goods can be mailed.

THE LEADER

It Would Not be Difficult

To fill this store in the McPherson Block in twenty-four hours time, and possibly some buyers in their eager anxiety to get into business quickly would have filled it more rapidly than we are doing, but it is not our way to buy a stock of goods, pell mell and purchase anything that comes along, without regard to value or style. Our business in the beginning was built upon buying the best the market afforded. Every corner-stone in laying the foundation was solidity. So must this new business be, and, whether large or small, must and shall be of the very choicest class that cash can buy.

We meant to have our opening on Saturday, the 28th, and regret exceedingly that only a small part of our stock reached us Saturday and the souvenirs did not get here until Saturday evening. We will, therefore, have our opening

Saturday, May 5th.

We have a handsome souvenir which we want every visitor on Saturday to have one. This is not a cheap, trashy, penny gift, but a souvenir that the most refined family will be glad to place on their library table and keep it there. We can but say that you will be more than welcome to visit us on Saturday, and will be only too pleased to have you see the Clothing and Furnishing Goods which we are going to display, and are perfectly willing to leave it to your own good taste and judgment as to who will show the handsomest line of these goods in this or any other town. To go into details about this stock would require several issues of the Compiler, but it will suffice to say that we have the goods. They speak for themselves. We have the prices, we have the quality and we have the styles. No one can say that our stock is old at this time. There are no moths in this stock and there is not likely to be any at the rapid rate they moved out Saturday.

We can hardly thank you enough for your liberality, yet you will find our greatest appreciation will be in keeping up this high class of goods and keeping down the prices to the very lowest point.

We shall look for you Saturday at our opening.

"COMPLETE" FERTILIZERS.

SOME OF THE DIFFICULTIES ENCOUNTERED IN THEIR SELECTION.

The most difficult problem with farmers in the use of fertilizers is to select the kinds desired. Just what combination, or mixture of plant foods, or all-around fertilizer may be adapted to the farm or some special crop becomes a subject of serious consideration. The problem can never be solved except by each individ- farmer for himself, although he may be assisted to a certain extent by outside experiments, and this fact is so well recognized that Prof. A. L. Knisely, of Cornell University Experiment Station, induced farmers in several Sections of this State to make experiment, in order that the results might be given, and which could also be used as inducements for others to pursue investigations. To the inquiry: "Which is the best all-round fertilizer?" No ready answer may be given; in fact, month, and even years, years, may be required to arrive at sufficient results to give a satisfactory reply. A farmer grows an acre of corn and harvests but 10 bushels. The poor yield may be due to one or more of several conditions, such as lack of moisture, too much moisture, acidity of the soil, deficiency in either nitrogen, potash or phosphoric acid, the soil may be too cold or heavy, capillary attraction may be imperfect, humus may be lacking, the texture of the soil may not be suitable to the crop, or the soil may not contain enough nitrifying organisms to maintain a good supply of nitrates, or it may contain too much denitrifying organisms, which destroy. One essential condition may be at the minium of lowest grade during the growth of a crop, and yet it may be that one condition which regulates the yield and exerts the greatest influence on the crop. Where so many conditions must be met the farmer must experiment on his soil and determine its requirements.

CHARACTER OF THE SOIL.

A soil may contain everything required for producing a large crop except one single substance, which may be, for instance, phosphoric acid. The crop will consequently be regulated by the amount of this substance that is available. If more phosphoric acid is applied then the yield will be increased, because it is the phosphoric acid only that is needed. If nitrogen or potash be applied they would give no results, because the soil already contains a supply of each. If the texture of the soil is such as to be unfavorable, such as stiff clay, hard and compact, it must be made loose, porous and friable before satisfactory results can be obtained from any kind of fertilizer. The farmer must also be careful when supplying his soil with that which is a minimum that he does not create some other undesirable condition. The fertility of the soil can only be maintained, therefore, by close observation of the soil itself, in order to intelligently make use of the proper fertilizers for producing the largest possible yields of crops. Manufacturers of fertilizers, who are well equipped for intimately mixing fertilizers, have adopted the system of preparing special fertilizers from formulas sent them by farmers, so that at the present day any farmer can order from the factory just what he desires in the lines of fertilizers, each bag containing the exact proportions of plant food designated by the farmer. With such an advantage in his favor the farmer can regulate the amount of each particular kind of plant food and adapt the fertilizer not only to the requirements of the soil, but also of the crop.—Phila. Record.

LOOSENING THE WOOL.

One of the most frequent and annoying troubles of the shepherd at this time of the year is the loss of wool, which loosens from the skin and is rubbed off by the sheep, or sometimes it falls off and a large portion of the fleece is lost. As with other things, there are several causes for this. But they are all alike in that the loosening of the wool is due to some irritation of the skin or some weakness in other ways. Wool is apt to be diseased by want of due nutrition, and as it is part of the skin it necessarily suffers with the skin, and the skin suffers from whatever disturbance there may be in the general health of the sheep. There is, in fact, no disease existing in a flock but it may have this effect of interfering with the growth of the fleece and causing it to separate from the skin as dead stuff shed off for want of life. The wool-buyer recognizes this deadness of the wool as soon as he takes a fleece in his hands. Unfortunately this trouble is one of those that cannot be remedied. The mischief is done, and there is nothing to do but to get the sheep in right condition to make the new growth healthy. But it may be avoided in the future by knowing the cause of it, for there are several. One is too much dry fodder, and most so if the fodder has any smut, as corn will always have more or less. Every smutty stalk or top should be carefully weeded out at the harvest time. And as this disease occurs equally from overfeeding of dry fodder, it is to be prevented by giving the sheep either a bran mash once a week or some good condition powders regularly during the winter feeding. An excellent preventive of this ill condition of the flock is to give once a week in chopped corn and oats one level teaspoonful of an even mixture of ground ginger, gentian and sulphate of iron. The common condition powders make an excellent substitute for this. To give some molasses in a bran and linseed mash at regular intervals has an excellent effect on the sheep and keeps the bowels in good condition, and so averts this disease.—American Sheep Breeder.

AN EASY TEST.

If you are suffering from Kidney or Bladder disease, the doctor asks: "Do you desire to urinate often and are you compelled to get up frequently during the night? Does your back pain you? Does your urine stain linen? Is there a scalding pain in passing it, and is it difficult to hold the urine back? If so, your Kidneys or Bladder are diseased."

Try putting some of your urine in a glass tumbler, let it stand twenty-four hours. If there is a sediment, or a cloudy, milky appearance your Kidneys are sick.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy will surely relieve and cure even the most distressing cases of these dread diseases and no physician can prescribe a medicine that equals it for diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Chronic Constipation. It will promptly correct the bad effects of beer and whiskey. All drug stores sell it for one dollar a bottle.

By sending your address to the DR. DAVID KENNEDY CORPORATION, Rondout, N. Y., and mentioning this paper a trial bottle, together with pamphlet of valuable medical advice, will be sent you free postpaid by mail. Our readers can depend upon the genuineness of this liberal offer.

ECZEMA—SATANIC ITCH.

This most aggravating and tormenting of all skin diseases is caused by an acid condition of the blood, and unless relieved through certain instrumentalities too much of this acid poison reaches the skin and it becomes red and inflamed. The itching and burning are almost unbearable, especially when overheated from any cause. The skin seems on fire, sleep or rest is impossible, the desperate sufferer, regardless of consequences, scratches until strength is exhausted.

This burning, itching humor appears sometimes in little pustules, discharging a sticky fluid, which forms crusts and scales. Again the skin is dry, hard and fissured, itches intensely, bleeds and scabs over. This is a painful and stubborn form of the disease.

While Eczema, Tetter, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum and many like troubles are spoken of as diseases of the skin, they are really blood diseases, because

THERE CAN BE NO EXTERNAL IRRITATION WITHOUT AN INTERNAL CAUSE.

If the blood is in a pure, healthy condition, no poisonous elements can reach the skin.

External applications of washes, lotions and salves sometimes mitigate the itching and soothe the inflammation, but cannot reach the disease. Only S. S. S., the real blood medicine, can do this.

S. S. S., the only purely vegetable remedy known, is a safe and permanent cure for Eczema and all deep-seated blood and skin troubles. It goes direct to the seat of the disease, neutralizes the acids and cleanses the blood, re-inforces and invigorates all the organs, and thus clears the system of all impurities through the natural channels, the skin relieved, all inflammation subsides, and all signs of the disease disappear.

Mrs. Lela M. Hoffman, of Cardington, Ohio, says she was afflicted with Scrofulous sores and Eczema from birth. Her face at times became so badly swollen that she was not recognizable, and her limbs and hands were very sore. She was treated by all the doctors in town without being benefitted, and in her researches for relief was told by an old physician to take S. S. S. She followed his advice and was promptly cured, and has never had a return of the disease. This was seventeen years ago. She sincerely believes she would have been in her grave years ago but for S. S. S., and adds, "what it has done for me it will do for others."

THE IMPORTANCE OF HORSES IN WARFARE.

The horse is not to become obsolete after all—that is, so long as there are wars. Automobiles and electric cars may drive him from town and country, but the army is still left for him.

One thing that the present war in South Africa has emphasized is the value of mobility in troops. And mobility can only come through mounted infantry, and mounted infantry needs horses. Here, incidentally, lies a new market for Canadian horses, and one that may not be unworthy of attention.

The last official report of Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War in President Lincoln's Cabinet, gives some faint conception of the enormous consumption of horses and mules entailed by active hostilities on a large scale during such a Titanic war as that between the Northern and Southern states of the American Union, which lasted from April, 1861, to May, 1865. The report in question is dated Washington, March 1, 1865, and contains the following striking passage:

The supply of horses and mules to our armies has long been at the rate of 500 per day, which is also the average rate of their destruction. The cavalry of the army of the Potomac was twice remounted during the first eight months of 1864. The resources of supply in this country were able to bear the immense drains upon its horses and mules, and, judging from current prices, the stock shows no symptoms of exhaustion or diminution. An army in the field, well equipped with artillery, cavalry and trains, requires one horse or mule to every two men. The number of horses and mules in our armies is nearly equal.

If the calculation of Mr. Stanton, the American Secretary of War in 1865, be correct, 100,000 British troops now engaged in fighting the Boers would need 50,000 horses and mules to keep them going. Where would it be possible for Great Britain, even the world-wide empire behind it, to collect such a number of quadrupeds in three months? In spite of the stupendous efforts now put forward by the War Department, it is doubtful whether there are at this moment 12,000 four-footed servitors attached to the armies under the supreme command of Rord Roberts, and the supplies needed to recruit their waning numbers must, we fear, be wholly inadequate.

Nassau's Big Tree.

In Nassau, the capital city of the Bahama islands, they say "the tree in the public square"—not the trees. Now the public square of Nassau is quite as large as that of most cities of the size, but there is only one tree in it, and that tree literally fills the square and spreads its shade over all the public buildings in the neighborhood. For it is the largest tree in the world at its base, although it is hardly taller than a three story house. It is variously known as a ceiba or a silk cotton tree, but the people of the low islands of the West Indies call it the hurricane tree; for no matter how hard the wind blows it cannot disturb the mighty buttressed trunk of the ceiba.

Its trunk throws out great curving windlike branches, some of them 20 feet wide and nearly as high. These extend into the ground on all sides and brace the tree against all attack, while the great branches spread a thick shade overhead. In the tropic sunshine of midsummer, hundreds, even thousands of people may gather in the cool of its shadow. No one knows how old the great tree is, but it must have been growing hundreds, if not thousands, of years. A very old picture in the library at Nassau shows the tree as big as it is at present, and even the oldest negro in the island cannot remember when it was a bit smaller.—Washington Post

Both Had Been Out.

"The revenue cutter of the United States, as you may know," said an officer of one of them who likes his little joke," confine their services, which are really invaluable to the government, to the coast, and it is a rare thing indeed for any one of them except those of the Bering sea patrol to venture any distance out to sea. Nor is this rule an unsatisfactory one, for, say what you please about it, sea service is not as pleasant as the novelists and other romancers would have you believe.

"But I am getting off of my story, which applies to the cutter Grant when she was doing duty in New York bay and vicinity. Something had happened to call her down the shore somewhere, and she left the bay one afternoon, and early the next morning, while she was bowling along at about seven knots an hour, she hailed a big four master.

"'What ship is that?' came the cry from the Grant.

"'The Royal Bengal Tiger, 243 days out from Calcutta,' came the reply. 'What ship is that?'

"'Revenue cutter Grant,' was the plaintive answer, 'and we've been out all night.'"—Washington Star.

TO BE NATURAL.

To be natural, is the most unnatural thing in all art. It is the must desirable, perhaps; but it is certainly the most difficult. Many a tyro suffers the pain and indignity of ridicule for affectation of manner, when in reality it is his very inexperience, his very ingenuousness, that gives him this false place in the minds of his undiscerning critics.

The proof of this is visible in the rant of cheap actors; in the mouthing extravagance of gawky schoolboys; even more, in the very efforts of young children to show off their attainments. "High-school oratory" and commencement-day pathos are familiar types of the intolerable affectations of being generally free of guile and most sedately earnest. The informal bonhomie of after-dinner oratory is the last art of elocution.—From "The Point of View," in the May Scribner's.

THE FORUM.

Among the twelve striking papers in the May Forum may be singled out for special mention Mr. Clark's article on "British Policy toward the Boers"; "The Constitution and the Flag," by Hon. Charles Denby, late United States Minister to China; "Uncle Sam's Legacy of Slaves," by Henry O. Dwight; "The Approaching Presidential Campaign," by Henry Litchfield West; "The Hay-Pauncefote Treaty," by Henry Wade Rogers, of Northwestern University, Illinois; "The United States and the Future of China," by Hon. William Woodville Rockhill, the well known writer and diplomat, late Assistant Secretary of State; and "Journalism in Japan," by T. T. Nakagawa, Secretary of the Japanese Legation at Rome.

HEBER'S ALPENSTOCK.

One day, sitting in his studio, he told a friend about it.

"Well," he said, "if you want her why don't you ask for her?"

"For her? For Geraldine Huston? She would think I was demented. Her brother would never forgive me. He would think I had presumed upon his hospitality. When he took me in I was in rags—"

"Do you imagine your friend cared? Would you admit that he took you in because you were in broadcloth and fine linen?"

"Of course not!"

"Well, then, equally of course he did not mind the rags. What are garments? Anyone can get them in a few minutes. They do not matter one way or the other I take it, to a man of ability. If you want your lady write and ask for her."

"It is impossible, and I cannot."

"It is perfectly possible, and you can. Do it now. Get your pen and paper. There! Write while I read."

The friend immersed herself in a book, while the young artist, tense and white-faced, wrote his letter.

"She will laugh at me," he groaned, as he completed it.

The friend, by way of answer, handed him an envelope.

"Address it," she commanded.

The friend mailed it herself, and for the next three weeks found Heber anything but an agreeable companion.

"I've made a fool of myself!" he would say. "Why, I was a ragamuffin when she saw me! What an absurd figure I have made of myself!"

But by return steamer a letter came.

"I thought you had forgotten me," wrote the young English woman. "You have made me unspeakably happy. I know of no man whose offer of marriage would have made me so proud—quite putting other considerations aside. That I enjoy your society more than that of any living person I do not need to tell you."

"There, said the friend I told you so!"

That was long ago. He is well known in London now, has exhibitions of his work annually, is associated with the staff of one of the great illustrated London weeklies, and has a charming home in the suburbs, with a studio opening off the house.—Chicago Tribune.

Prize Scholars At Play.

"Even our education is 'silvery' on the under side," said Robert J. Burdette the other day. "You go into the school and are so pleased with the correct intonation, the precision of grammatical construction, the exactness of statement in the language used by the pupils in their recitations. You compliment the pupils and you praise the teacher, and your opinion of our schools goes up to ninety in the shade. Then as you walk down the street after school hours you hear two young gentlemen who are prize pupils conversing across the length of the block, loudly discussing the examination through which they had evidently passed triumphantly.

"Hello, Skin nee!"

"Hey, Bill!"

"'Watch ge gittin rithmetic?'

"'Eighty-seven—unu diddunt expect to git morn forty. Jew passin grammar?'

"'Betcher boots sidid; got ninety three anai only made two mistakes in histry, anni got a hundred din spellin all right.'

"'Sodi. George Goodie failed in spellin.'

"'Yessaninodewoodtoo; furry always looked in the book. Cummout after supper n gawsum fun!'

"'Can't cossi gotti goto meetin with mumuther. See?'"

NEW COURT FOR PENNSYLVANIA.

The House of Representatives committee on the judiciary recently reported favorably a bill introduced by Representative Connell, of Scranton, creating a new judicial district in Pennsylvania to be known as the Middle District. It provides that the counties of Lackawanna, Wyoming, Bradford, Monroe, Wayne, Pike, Susquehanna, Carbon, Tioga, Potter, Cameron, Clinton, Lycoming, Centre, Union, Snyder, Mifflin, Juniata, Northumberland, Montour, Columbia, Sullivan, Luzerne, Dauphin, Lebanon, Perry, Huntingdon, Fulton, Franklin, Adams, York and Cumberland shall be detached from the Eastern and Western districts, and that they shall constitute a judicial district to be known as the Middle District. The bill authorizes the appointment of a Judge and other court officials and provides that court shall be held as follows:

At Scranton—On the first Monday of March and the first Monday of October.

At Williamsport—On the second Monday of January and the second Monday of June.

At Harrisburg—On the first Monday of May and the second Monday of November.

The new district is to be attached to the Third Judicial Circuit. Mr. Connell said to-night he felt sure the House would pass the bill at this session.

The Buildings of the Paris Exposition Will Not Equal the "White City."

As a whole, the Paris Exposition could not be planned so as to present such a splendid coup-d'oeil as did the Court of Honor at Chicago. Our World's Fair had the advantage of unlimited space, with the opportunity of spreading in all directions. As Paris wished to have her Exposition within her own walls, she was obliged to take the largest open spaces which the city afforded and to connect them as best she could. The broad waterways of the "White City" suggested the possibility of using the banks of the Seine far more than they have ever been used before. The quays have been widened and in places raised to the level of the avenues which border them; hence the river may be called the main thoroughfare of the Exposition. Otherwise the space is the same as that occupied by the Exposition of 1889, with the added area embraced between the old Palais de l'Industrie, now removed, and the Place de la Concorde. On this piece of land the two great art palaces and the monumental entrances have been erected facing the very centre of the city.—From "Some Picturesque Sides of the Exposition," by ERNEST C PEIXOTTO, in the May Scribner's.

THE question whether the Constitution in every case follows the Flag is critically discussed in the May Forum by the Hon. Charles Denby, who cites the present status of consular courts abroad, and delves into early United States history to prove that in the Territories when first organized the vested constitutional rights of the people did not always come into operation with the hoisting of the Stars and Stripes. Without being dogmatic it is a timely and temperate discussion of a most important question.

A WOMAN'S AWFUL PERIL.—"There is only one chance to save your life and that is through an operation" were the startling words heard by Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., from her doctor after he had vainly tried to cure her of a frightful case of stomach and yellow jaundice. Gall stones had formed and she gradually grew worse. Then she began to use Electric Bitters which wholly cured her. It's a wonderful Stomach, Liver and Kidney remedy. Cures Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite. Try it. Only 50c. Guaranteed. For sale by S. J. . CATARRH CAN BE CURED.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.
